THE 2021 VIRTUAL NAPSA CONFERENCE REGISTRATION IS NOW OPEN!

NAPSA will host its 2021 virtual conference over several dates in September and October. This special event will be live-streamed from 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. EDT beginning on Tuesday, September 28, continuing on Thursday, September 30 and Tuesday, October 5, and concluding on Thursday, October 7. The conference will offer everything you expect from a NAPSA Conference: excellent keynote speakers, workshops that feature the finest education and training for pretrial practitioners and stakeholders, an exhibit hall and exposition, and networking opportunities for you to meet and learn from others working in the field.

Each day will begin with a Plenary Session and will feature two blocks of four concurrent workshops. Our workshops are designed to feature future trends in pretrial, legal and evidence based decision making, the value of assessment tools and specific courses that will be informative for judicial officers. We also educate practitioners new to the Pretrial field on pretrial fundamentals and provide workshops for those working in the federal pretrial system. Our schedule of events will provide detailed information about our conference program.

While our conference is being live-streamed, it will also be recorded. So, you don't have to worry about missing an educational opportunity should you have to step away. All registered participants will have access the recorded version of the conference for three months following the conference. Conference participants will be able to access every plenary session and every workshop on demand.

Conference Registration Fees

Full conference registration fees are $250 for members and $350 for non-members. We also offer a single-day rate of $125. Because the conference is being recorded, and therefore accessible during and after the conference, we are not able to offer refunds. An agency can substitute a conference participant with another practitioner from the same agency.
